How we go to market

Our lawyers drive progress by applying our full service capabilities to all the areas in which our clients need our support.

We live and breathe our clients' sectors and have an informed view of what's coming around the corner.

Our five key industries

Energy & Natural Resources

We advise every type of company involved in commodities, power, oil & gas, nuclear, mining, metals & minerals, renewable, and clean-tech energy industries. Our clients include public and private companies, lenders, investors, contractors, consultants and end users, as well as regulators, industry associations, and government and non-governmental bodies.

Entertainment & Media

We advise the best-known brands and talent in the world across music, entertainment, streaming, social media, film, television, tech, and sports on their complex transactions, advertising and marketing needs, disputes, and everything in between.

Financial Services

Our global Financial Industry Group helps clients minimize the risks associated with their business and legal objectives. We advise domestic and global banks, funds, investment management companies, advisors, and multinational companies in the areas of finance, regulatory, restructuring and insolvency, and financial services litigation.

Life Sciences & Health Care

Our health care lawyers, product liability litigators, and policy analysts represent virtually every type of enterprise connected with the life sciences and health care industry – including many of the world’s largest pharmaceutical and medical device manufacturers, as well as hundreds of U.S. health care providers – in high-stakes investigations and litigation, regulatory matters, and product liability defense.

Transportation

Our practice covers the full spectrum of legal needs for owners, operators, manufacturers, and investors, whether they move people or goods, transport by sea or air, manufacture ships or aircraft, invest in aerospace, or anything else the future might hold. We work across a range of sectors including shipping, offshore, aviation, logistics, and asset and equipment finance.
